PERSONAL SUMMARY

Maxine has experience in a multitude of SAP projects and will have no trouble leading, planning and executing large SAP implementations. She is comfortable being the central focal point of what is going on around her and is someone who never loses her attention to detail and always ensures a high quality of excellence. In her current role she frequently contributes to the development of new ideas and methods. Aside from her technical and managerial skills she is also commercially aware in terms of contractual aspects and value added propositions. Right now she would like to join a company where empowerment and rewards are the cornerstone of the career development model.
